
Russian steel slabs and billets export decreased

Saturday, 22 Aug, 2009

It is reported that Russian steel slabs and billets export in July decreased in comparison with June according to customs statistics by 20.5% and totaled 1.1 million tonnes.

As per report, deliveries of semi products this year are uneven. In February and April Russian export was averagely falling by 18.5% however in March it increased in 1.5 times. In May and June deliveries are also increased but by not over than 13% monthly.

In general January to July deliveries of steel slabs and billets from Russia made 8.06 million tonnes it is 1.25 times less than a year before.

(Source from Rusmet.ru)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com