

---

FerAus appoints Mr Amundsen as new CEO

Saturday, 04 Jul, 2009

AAP reported that FerAus has named former BHP Billiton executive Mr Mike Amundsen as its new managing director and chief executive.

Mr Amundsen took up his new role this week, as FerrAus took full ownership of the Silver Swan North nickel and gold joint venture after the withdrawal of BHP Billiton and Mithril Resources.

The project near Kalgoorlie, Western Australia neighbors the Black Swan nickel mine, which Russia's Norilsk Nickel mothballed in February due to the slumped nickel price.

Mr Amundsen's last role with BHP Billiton was as vice-president of business development and director of business development in the iron ore business.

Mr John Nyvlt chairman of FerrAus said that "Mr Amundsen's appointment has been made at a very important and exciting period of the development of the company's Pilbara iron ore projects in Western Australia."

(Sourced from AAP)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com