
New headquarter completes for Heartland Steel

Friday, 02 Oct, 2009

Heartland Inc announced that the new headquarters of Heartland Steel has been completed and management and employees have moved into the new state of the art warehousing and distribution facility and office space in Washington Court House. An open house has been scheduled for October 29th 2009, when community and business leaders will able to tour the facility.

Mr Randy W Frevert president of Heartland Steel said that "Having reached over USD 1 million in sales before occupying our building, I would now expect the pace of our marketing and sales activity to increase substantially. Virtually all production equipment, overhead cranes and offices are fully functional and additional inventory is being purchased and moved into our spacious warehouse, whose 80 foot wide bays provide tremendous flexibility and efficiencies."

He added that "In addition, our new high speed plate processing machine is capable of drilling, counter sinking and light milling in addition to processing the final shape of the part. This piece of equipment has generated quite of bit of interest, and gives us additional capabilities in our marketplace. Our team is poised to provide the service and support that our customers need and demand. There is tremendous opportunity for growth in this region, and the completion of our facility is an important step in building a growing and thriving enterprise."
