Sumitomo Mining to produce 201,000 tonnes of copper in H2

Saturday, 03 Oct, 2009

Reuters reported that Sumitomo Metal Mining Company Limited expects to produce 201,000 tonnes of copper in October and March, as announced at the beginning of the business year in April.

A company spokesman said that would be down 0.9% YoY. He said that the company was keeping output curbs of 7% introduced in January. Japanese smelters have been forced to reduce production as manufacturers cut output in the face of the worst global economic downturn in decades.
