
Nanjing largest steel trade center in trial use

Tuesday, 20 Oct, 2009

It is reported that Nanjing largest metal material trading market Donghua Metal Material Trade Center eyed its main body buildings be completed recently and 200 metal material traders moved in for the trial use of the center.

Located in Wanshou Village, Maigaoqiao, Qixia District of Nanjing, the trade center was jointly invested by SAIC Motor and Nanjing Automobile Corp and built into 40,000 square meters complex trade buildings and 100,000 square meters storage yard which possessed 500 meter long double track railway lines.

The trade center will realize over 5 million tonnes of trading volume in one year. After the official use starting in January 2010, traders, spreading in Xiaguan District will move into the center to continue their businesses.

(Sourced from MySteel.net)

Visit www.Mysteel.net for real time access to China steel news

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com