
Tips to use steelguru.com services effectively - No 6- Our pricing services

Monday, 02 Nov, 2009

A steel producer, user or trader, however big or small, is always concerned about steel prices as steel is normally a big ticket item, but there is no bench mark available to steel buyers to compare their transaction prices.

Steel has been very volatile in last 12 months and has effected many users in a very severe way making it all the more important to track the prices and trends.

Thus, we have launched user friendly pricing services for India, China and Middle East, which provides domestic pricing information for benchmark steel products in each category at select location on a regular basis 5 days a week.

www.steelprices-india.com

www.steelprices-china.com

www.steelprices-middleeast.com

In addition, we have launched a special pricing service for monitoring flat products prices on weekly basis, both domestic and imported, in Germany, Italy and Spain.

www.steelprices-europe.com

In addition, FOB levels for commonly exported steel products from major exporting nation Ukraine, Russia, Turkey and China are also available on weekly basis to give international trends.

This would assist persons, including steel makers, traders, users, analysts and others, who are connected with industry in some way to assess the steel pricing trends and utilize them in their day to day working to take considered decisions.

To know more about these ventures, please visit respective web sites or send a mail to admin@steelprices-india.com

You can view other tips at <http://www.steelguru.com/tips>

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com