
China Jiangxi copper plans routine overhaul in December

Friday, 13 Nov, 2009

Reuters reported that Jiangxi Copper plans a routine equipment overhaul in December.

The source said that "The overhaul will last 10 to 20 days but will not affect output at all because our annual production plan has already taken it into account."

(Sourced from Reuters)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com