
Special package for tracking Indian input material prices

Tuesday, 17 Nov, 2009

Indian Steel prices have been through a tumultuous phase for over an year. The swinging fortune has a strong correlation with the raw material prices and vice versa. It is imperative for the steel producer, user or trader, however big or small to keep a tab on the raw material prices to have a holistic picture of the market.

We at www.steelprices-india.com endeavor to provide all encompassing prices of raw material from a cross section of domestic as well as international locations to give a realistic reflection of the market.

The movement in raw material prices has a bearing on the bottom line of the manufacturers who have become more cost sensitive amidst depleting margins. Buyers of long products primarily from the construction and power sector as well stockiest and traders have a keen interest in monitoring the prices of input materials to gauge the movements in long prices to hedging against future risks.
