
Production pruning - Severstal NA Yorkville CRM to resume operations

Friday, 20 Nov, 2009

NEWS9 reported that the Yorkville cold rolling mill of Severstal Wheeling, Inc, will resume operations on December 13th 2009 to provide additional cold rolling capacity to Severstal North America.

Yorkville, idled since June, will finish sheet steel made at Severstal Sparrows Point for delivery to customers and Severstal Wheeling's Martins Ferry coating operation.

According to a news release, company officials said that ""The return to operation of the mill will better balance supply and finishing capabilities within Severstal North America and reflects increasing demand for cold rolled and coated products."

As per report, the number of employees to be recalled will vary with production demands.

(Sourced from NEWS9)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com