Sinopec to build 100 odd new gas stations in Chongqing

Saturday, 21 Nov, 2009

It is reported that Sinopec Corp China leading oil products supplier plans to build more than 100 new gas stations at Chongqing in South Western China before 2015 in a bid to handle a larger local market share.

Sinopec currently owns about 90 stations in Chongqing a region traditionally regarded as PetroChina turf which operates more than 400 gas stations there.

The two oil firms have been attempting to squeeze into each others markets in a bid to grasp more market shares.

Sinopec, meanwhile, has reformed its sales system so as to streamline its operation and compete better against PetroChina.
