
GSPL to expand gas pipeline network in Gujarat

Sunday, 04 Nov, 2007

It is reported that Gujarat State Petroleum Corporation's subsidiary Gujarat State Petronet Limited is in the process of evaluating the projects to expand its gas distribution network and is likely to finalize by early 2008.

Out of the 2,200 kilometer long gas grid planned, GSPL has already commissioned a pipeline network of 1,130 kilometer and work is in progress on the remaining.

GSPL will expand its gas distribution network to economic hubs such as Mundra and Pipavav ports and Morbi. It owns and operates the second largest natural gas transmission network in India.

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com