
Quebec firm BPR Consulting opens office in South Africa

Wednesday, 07 Dec, 2005

BPR consulting engineers of Quebec have opened a new office in Johannesburg, South Africa. This is the company's first office in Africa, adding to their 20 existing overseas offices in Europe, the West Indies and the United States.

The company, which has strong expertise in mining and metals, has a joint venture with Bechtel to engineer new plant for the Highveld Steel and Vanadium Corporation in Mpumanlanga near Witbank.

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com