
Peruvian tin production dips in April 2008

Sunday, 08 Jun, 2008

Peru's official figures released by the energy and mines ministry at the start of the week showed that Peru's mine production of tin fell slightly in April 2008, in contrast to growth in production of most other base metals.

April production of tin in concentrate was 3,164 tonnes down by 3.3% YoY compared to April 2007. All of Peru's tin production comes from Minsur's San Rafael mine. Cumulative output in the first four months of this year was 12,839 tonnes down by 0.5% lower than in January to April 2007.

(Sourced from ITRI.co.uk)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com