
AsiaTAC 2009 to include stainless steel training seminar

Wednesday, 24 Jun, 2009

It is reported that MTI's 2009 AsiaTAC Meeting will be held at the Renaissance Zhongshan Park Hotel in Shanghai from September 23rd 2009 to September 25th 2009. This year's event will include a full day stainless steel training seminar.

Mr Henry Ye chairman AsiaTAC believes that the region needs this type of forum. He said that "MTI member companies are growing very fast in the Asia Pacific area in recent years. I know DuPont has already set up about 40 wholly owned plant sites and joint ventures. Dow Chemical, BASF, Bayer and many other member companies have an even heavier investment in this region. We are facing similar difficulties and challenges as we develop our businesses here."

He added that "It is in our common interest to share our experiences and lessons. MTI AsiaTAC just provides an excellent platform so that we can get together to discuss our common problems and their solutions, of course, focusing on the technical aspect."

This year's meeting agenda includes four panel discussions covering equipment fabrication and inspection, nickel based alloys, corrosion under insulation, and gasket vendor qualification. MTI added the Stainless Steel Seminar because it was a very popular topic with attendees at previous meetings.

MTI does not charge a fee to participate in this conference, however, space is limited for this exclusive event and will be allotted on a first come, first served basis.

(Sourced from www.engineerlive.com)

For more news visit at www.steelguru.com